

Welcome to Relationship Lifeline

It is our mission to provide married couples with the knowledge and skills they need to stop the devastating generational effect that divorce is having within families.

Our Relationship Lifeline program guides couples through resolutions to the core issues holding them back from having the marriage they have always wanted.

Relationship Lifeline is a four-day engaging experience where you are actively part of a transformation that could never be done “to you” but only “by you”. Our program includes over 35 hours of exercises that focus on the real stuff that couples experience on a day-to-day basis. We have helped bring over 4,000 couples to emotional and relational health over the past 20 years.

Relationship Lifeline is your answer to the genuine personal and relational happiness only attainable through honest self-discovery for yourself and your marriage. Through a safe environment, free from the pressures and expectations of life, is it possible to identify the root causes of personal and relational issues. Our interactive experiences will help uncover emotions locked away long ago so they can be addressed, resolved, and released from limiting your future fulfillment.

The program is so effective it provides the equivalent of two years of marriage counseling in just a long weekend. Our team of experts is passionately committed to paying forward the amazing healing power of Relationship Lifeline – one person at a time.

Join the thousands of couples that found newfound love, happiness, and fulfillment they never knew was possible.

We help transform:

- Healthy individuals: We believe that healthy individuals have a sense of self-awareness that enables them to identify unresolved issues, personal triggers, destructive behaviors, and toxic thoughts.
- Making Healthy Decisions: Emotional healing prevents destructive decisions based in self-desires, anger, and fear.
- Capable of Healthy Relationships: The ability to see situations from another person’s perspective will reveal the “whys” behind conflicts, why your partner feels differently than you do, and how you can relate to each other.

Love is the beginning and love is the end, but it is in between where real life happens – that is where most couples get off track. Life presents challenges, stresses, and temptations that can push a relationship past the breaking point. People try tirelessly to improve relationships with counseling, therapy, and self-help books. Short-term improvements quickly vanish, only now with one more failed attempt on the record.

When you finally realize the quick fixes are not your long-term solution and you want to solidify your relationship on a healthy foundation, it’s time for the Relationships Lifeline experience. We have saved relationships from just about any situation imaginable over the last 20 years. Regardless of the issues or trauma in your past, WE CAN HELP YOU find healthy resolutions that allow your relationships to move forward.

The Relationship Lifeline Approach

Our approach engages couples from the very first exercise

Our unique approach engages couples from the very first exercise — discussing topics that are meaningful to them and their marriage in ways they've never considered. This approach helps couples to understand what they really desire from each other, and also provokes revealing thoughts and genuine interaction that creates real change in the foundation of their relationship. This approach also helps couples learn how to develop new life skills that lead to a deeper level of appreciation for each other, their relationship and their family.

Specifically, the Relationship Lifeline program provides a structured environment where couples:

- Feel safe to reveal their true thoughts and feelings
- Identify the triggers that cause conflict
- Begin to heal unresolved issues of the past
- Begin to understand the real source of issues
- Learn techniques to communicate effectively
- Learn how to manage frustrations
- Ultimately enhance their relationship
